CONTENT

It has been raining for hours. Though it's ideal mud-and-puddle-weather, Wolle and his little sister have to stay indoors, because she catches cold easily. But no sooner the bear parents are away, searching for food, the two little bears run outside. They play in the puddles - until little bear sister falls into a mud-hole. Wolle gets scolded for being disobedient and for not looking after his sister properly. In the evening, little bear sister runs a temperature and Wolle is very contrite. To make up for his foolishness, he puts the whole house in order and sets the breakfast table, while everybody sleeps. Next morning his little sister is feeling better, and Mother Bear shows Wolle that, of course, she loves him as always.
